DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fasano (U.S. 3,086,315). Referring to claim 1, Fasano discloses a loop having smooth outer periphery, and a plurality of rings each having a hole defined there through and the loop extending through the hole of each ring so that the rings are rotatable relative to the loop.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 2-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fasano. Fasano discloses the claimed invention as seen above. Limitations drawn to the size and positioning of the holes, and the shapes of the rings are considered matters of simple design choice obvious to one skilled in the art. Specifically the specific dimension or shape serves no specific purpose (the size of Fasano allows free rotation) or provides no inherent advantage, and would perform equally well absent unexpected or undesired results. With respect to claim 3, the use of eccentric holes to affect exercise is notoriously old and well known in the art.

Conclusion

5. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
